

Sanaa Journal

African Arts :: Media :: Cultures

Information to Authors

Sanaa: Journal of African Arts, Media and Cultures (Sanaa Journal) ISSN – 2507-7775 (ONLINE) is a bi-annual, peer reviewed journal aimed at providing a forum for intellectuals, artists, media experts and creative people within and outside Africa to debate and publish scholarly works in relation to African's arts, media and cultures.

Aim

- To publish issues related to Africa's arts, media and cultures which are not often covered from a scholarly perspective.
- To link contemporary arts, media and cultures to the historical past.
- To build and rejuvenate research interest in Africa's arts, media and cultures.

Scope

The journal seeks original research-based content from academics and practitioners related to Africa's arts, media and cultures. The journal publishes articles that display intellectual rigour and scholarly excellence in creative industries and innovations. Papers are invited from cultural heritage, innovations, intangible heritage, creative industries, theatre, film, radio, television, music, dance, sculpture, drawings, graphics, painting, internet, digital media and other direct related fields. The works embraced by the journal include pageantry, community festivals, studio recordings, exhibitions, radio and TV shows, fashion, galas and celebrations. It also focuses on the review of related laws and policies. Inter-disciplinarity and multi-disciplinarity are key to this journal. On the whole, papers from the fields of humanities, social sciences, law, business, education, engineering, health sciences and on issues related to the scope of the journal are invited.

Important dates:

Deadlines for the submission of manuscripts are 31st July and 31st January of each year. Publication is scheduled for 1st April and 1st October of each year.

General Guidelines:

Articles:

1. Manuscripts should not have been published or be under consideration for publication elsewhere.
2. Manuscripts must be in English.
3. All manuscripts will be subjected to a plagiarism checker. Only those manuscripts which pass the checker test will be considered for review.
4. Submissions should be made in soft copy via email to: editor@sanaajournal.ac.tz
5. All manuscripts will be subjected to double blind peer-review.